To whom it may concern,

I have spent much time in the magical Pryor Mountains. Though you seem to want detailed and scientific reasons to preserve this area (all RWA's), my argument is simply that it is a wild area, with human history and geology beyond compare. It is essential that we preserve this and protect it from development, which often if not always creates wealth for a few and dependency for the rest. We can live without mindless mining and other extractions, but not the wildness of the soul of humanity that we need more than processed limestone. Please show some independence of mine and action, and preserve this wonderful place for my grandchildren and their children.
