Comments:

I would urge you to do everything in your power to protect the Gallatin Range Wilderness as an intact, contiguous wilderness as much as possible. We are rapidly losing these natural resources, and as they can never be restored, it is our duty and obligation to proceed with extreme caution before irreversibly altering a community resource such as that. The integrity of this ecosystem depends on its wholeness, and can't be retained in a piece meal fashion. Just like the human body, nature is too intricate for us to understand 100%, and when we change one part, the repercussions reach much farther than we might expect. Please do not create unintended consequences we will forever regret.

With many thanks for your time considering how to steward this precious natural gift.
