The destruction of our pristine heritage lands and the creatures that live in those ecosystems is a slap on the face of the American people who wants to preserve them for future generations. If we were in a famine or a natural disaster or our country were invaded by armed forces of another country the destruction of our heritage would be justifiable as an expected consequence.

Today no reason beyond the greed for profit and power of a very few that will contaminate grounds air and waters, destroyed forest, and species go extinct will be the consequence of this invasion of our pristine heritage. Those exploiters of natural resources will leave the mess and go away to enjoy their profit. We will have lost a magnificent area that we enjoyed with our families.

This is not the first experience we have suffered. We have learnt that oil exploration and extraction is one of the dirtiest industries that leaves problems that it takes generations to correct.

Today fossil,fuels are on the way out. Clean renewable energy resources are the future for the world. Let's protect our heritage and work in increasing these renewables. No need to start any more either exploration or extraction. There are enough wells all over the worl. We do not need any more. And the oil industry should keep exploiting what they already have.
