Although I fully agree that protecting our land an environment is important, I am very concerned that the focus of these wilderness changes will have a large impact on the accessibility of nature's brilliance. Like the vast majority of my peers, my winter sports give me the opportunity to explore and fully engulf myself in what this earth has to offer in beauty. It would be a shame to lose a huge group of responsible riders to a different part of the country. These changes will also effect the local economies that depend on winter sports.
