Hi my name is Austin Nelson. I wanted to take a moment to add a little of the back country rider input. Increasing the wilderness area and taking land away from us to explore hurts not only the sport but the local community. Last year I personally rode in the Cooke city area along with the big horns. I met people from all over the world Canada, Russia, and all over the country. I personally spent almost 3 weeks in the mountains riding, with lodging around 110 a night that would be a huge impact to start losing that source of tourism. Also I bought food, gas and other supplies while I was there along with my group of friends. I also bought a snowmobile from a local snowmobile shop in Cody WY who count on us coming from all over the country to ride in there home town mountain ranges. Just remember when you guys are voting on things, remember the little people that get effected talk to the locals that see us ride in and ride out season they're the people who should be voting
