Comments:

I generally prefer alternative D because it is focused on natural processes and restoration of the landscape. I would like to see the porcupine-buffalo-horn area set aside for wildlife, and to have motorized and mechanized uses removed, because as climate change makes survival for wildlife more difficult, we need to scale back human impacts. I grew up in Bozeman, recreating frequently in the Gallatin forest, and so I appreciate the wild values there. There are plenty of other places to ride mountain bikes, such as the Bridgers, Copper city, the bangtails, and etc., but we need to prioritize the security of wildlife in the one-of-a-kind Greater Yellowstone ecosystem.
